Town walks bring ELC Plan to Lyon County

By John Robinson john@emporia.com Feb 24, 2017 Updated Feb 24, 2017

John Robinson/Gazette Residents of Americus and Allen participated in town walk sessions for the Emporia and Lyon County Joint Comprehensive Plan Thursday. Three more walks are planned for 5:30 p.m. today in Reading, Olpe and Hartford.

The first of a two-night series of town walks for the Emporia and Lyon County Joint Comprehensive Plan was held Thursday evening.

Representatives from the design firm, the Urban Collaborative, visited Americus and Allen, meeting with local community members to receive their input on the joint comprehensive plan for Lyon County.

The presentation focused on the goals for the community workshops scheduled throughout the week and the overall goal of the comprehensive plan — to identify strengths, weaknesses and opportunities within communities and the county. Once identified, a plan will be formulated as to how to act.”

A second series of town walks will be held at 5:30 p.m. today in three communities. The locations are the Olpe United Methodist Church, 120 W. Listerscheid St.; Hartford Community Center, 117 Commercial St.; and Reading Community Center, 608 First St.
